

JANUARY

January 20, 2017

Here's a little of what we did this week:

In math:

- started working with time
- we focused on hour and half hour, we will begin working on drawing the hands of the clock next week

In reading:

- we started looking at nonfiction books
- we will be looking at different features of a nonfiction text next week

In Foundations:

- we introduced consonant blends (examples: st, br, sl)
- our trick words are would, could, should, her, number, over

In Science:

- we watched a Magic School Bus on Light
- Reading a light book during reading workshop

In writing workshop our class is working on writing How To texts so for our craft today we made paper footballs. We did not get much time to practice with them but they are in their backpacks.

Here is the link in case they get lost and would like to make one:

Have a great weekend!

Don't forget to read and pack the Read Across Wrentham sheets for Monday!
